

All Apple products with the exception of iPhones are available to educational institutions. This includes correctional learning centers funded by the Department of Education, but not those funded by the Department of Justice (per Apple). The Department of Education may purchase limited quantities for research, development and application testing.

Learn more about the iPhone contract.